

“Sensitivity Analysis for Inverse Probability Weighting Estimators via the Percentile Bootstrap” (Q. Zhao et al., 2017)

for “Observational Study Design and Causal Inference” (STAT 260), organized by S. Pimentel, Spring 2018, UC Berkeley

Nima Hejazi

Group in Biostatistics,
University of California, Berkeley
<https://statistics.berkeley.edu/~nhejazi>

12 April 2018

Outline

Introduction

Motivations

Objectives

Methodology

IPW Estimators

Percentile Bootstrap

Sensitivity Analysis

Conclusions

Review

Motivations: The Data

...

Motivations: The Data

...

Outline

Introduction

- Motivations

- Objectives

Methodology

- IPW Estimators

- Percentile Bootstrap

- Sensitivity Analysis

Conclusions

- Review

The Objective: Sensitivity Analysis

► ...

► ...

The Objective: Sensitivity Analysis

► ...

Outline

Introduction

Motivations

Objectives

Methodology

IPW Estimators

Percentile Bootstrap

Sensitivity Analysis

Conclusions

Review

IPW Estimators I

► ...

► ...

IPW Estimators II

► ...

► ...

IPW Estimators III

► ...

► ...

Outline

Introduction

Motivations

Objectives

Methodology

IPW Estimators

Percentile Bootstrap

Sensitivity Analysis

Conclusions

Review

Percentile Bootstrap I

► ...

► ...

Percentile Bootstrap II

► ...

► ...

Percentile Bootstrap III

► ...

► ...

Outline

Introduction

- Motivations

- Objectives

Methodology

- IPW Estimators

- Percentile Bootstrap

- Sensitivity Analysis

Conclusions

- Review

Sensitivity Parameter

► ...

► ...

IPW Estimators and the Percentile Bootstrap

► ...

► ...

IPW Estimators and the Percentile Bootstrap

► ...

► ...

Outline

Introduction

- Motivations

- Objectives

Methodology

- IPW Estimators

- Percentile Bootstrap

- Sensitivity Analysis

Conclusions

- Review

Review

References I

Qingyuan Zhao, Dylan S Small, and Bhaswar B Bhattacharya. Sensitivity analysis for inverse probability weighting estimators via the percentile bootstrap. arXiv preprint arXiv:1711.11286, 2017.